

Are you a Waltham Forest local eager to exercise your creativity? Keen to get to know your older neighbours while exploring a variety of art forms?

INSIDE OUT FESTIVAL

Supported by Waltham Forest London Borough of Culture 2019

Magic Me invites you to get involved with Inside Out Festival this November, and connect with your local care home resident neighbours through creative making, conversation and community spirit!

This is a unique opportunity to get creative and co-produce original art works with your local older neighbours to be exhibited in a public exhibition at each residential art venue!

You are:

- A Waltham Forest local with an interest in creative arts / making / crafting.
- Keen to creatively collaborate and get to know your neighbours
- Available to attend workshops at chosen local Leyton or Leytonstone residential art venue over two Saturdays in November, alongside a Sunday exhibition sharing open to the public!
- 18+

INSIDE OUT FESTIVAL INFO

Magic Me's Inside Out Festival is a new intergenerational arts event this November, connecting residents of George Mason Lodge in Leytonstone, Glebelands in Leyton, and Waltham Forest through creative making, conversation and community spirit.

Through workshops led by Magic Me's team of professional artists Sue Mayo, Ben Connors, Natalie Keymist and Hassan Vawda, the intergenerational groups will explore a variety of art forms together, and produce collaborative artworks that transform the care and residential homes into exciting new art venues. Inside Out Festival will form friendships and create relationships that transcend generations.

Join us for the final exhibitions of unique art works co-produced by our intergenerational creative groups at each residential care art venue.

EXHIBITION AND CELEBRATION DATES:

Sunday 10th November at George Mason Lodge, Leytonstone (Chelmsford Rd, London E11 1BS)

Sunday 24th November at Glebelands, Leyton (33 Church Road, Leyton, London, E10 5LY)
